

2003 DEGUSSATA

the 1990s, the number of people in the UK who are employed in the public sector has increased by 1.5 million, from 2.5 million in 1980 to 4 million in 1999. The public sector has also become an important employer of people with disabilities, with 1.5 million people with disabilities employed in the public sector in 1999, compared with 1.2 million in 1980.

There are a number of reasons why the public sector has become an important employer of people with disabilities. One reason is that the public sector has a long history of employing people with disabilities. In the 19th century, the public sector employed people with disabilities in a number of different roles, including as clerks, typists, and stenographers. In the 20th century, the public sector continued to employ people with disabilities in a variety of roles, including as teachers, nurses, and social workers.

Another reason why the public sector has become an important employer of people with disabilities is that it has a number of advantages over the private sector. For example, the public sector is often able to offer people with disabilities a more stable and secure employment environment than the private sector. This is because the public sector is often able to offer people with disabilities a more predictable and stable income, and a more secure job.

There are also a number of other reasons why the public sector has become an important employer of people with disabilities. For example, the public sector often has a number of policies and procedures in place that are designed to support people with disabilities in the workplace. These policies and procedures can include things like flexible working hours, and the provision of reasonable adjustments to the workplace.

Overall, the public sector has become an important employer of people with disabilities in the UK. This is due to a number of factors, including its long history of employing people with disabilities, its advantages over the private sector, and its policies and procedures designed to support people with disabilities in the workplace.

There are a number of challenges that the public sector faces in its role as an employer of people with disabilities. One challenge is that the public sector often has a number of different departments and agencies, each of which may have its own policies and procedures for employing people with disabilities. This can make it difficult to coordinate efforts to support people with disabilities in the workplace.

Another challenge is that the public sector often has a number of different funding sources, which can make it difficult to secure the resources needed to support people with disabilities in the workplace. This can be particularly challenging in the case of the NHS, which has a number of different funding sources, including the government, the public, and the private sector.

Despite these challenges, the public sector remains an important employer of people with disabilities in the UK. This is due to its long history of employing people with disabilities, its advantages over the private sector, and its policies and procedures designed to support people with disabilities in the workplace. It is important that the public sector continues to work to overcome these challenges, so that it can continue to be an important employer of people with disabilities in the future.

charting the course...

Four years out of an average of seventy-five years--this is the Andean High School journey.

It goes fast, even if occasionally it seems to drag on forever.
At times difficult, at times triumphant, it is a most important journey since it contains a transitional time.

In as an adolescent and out as a young adult,
the Andean High School student needs to take this journey seriously.

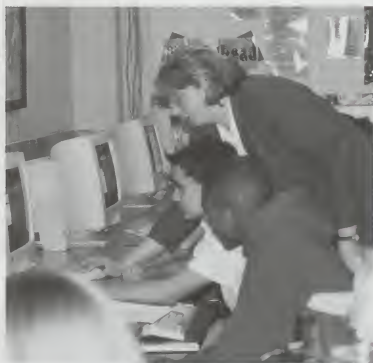

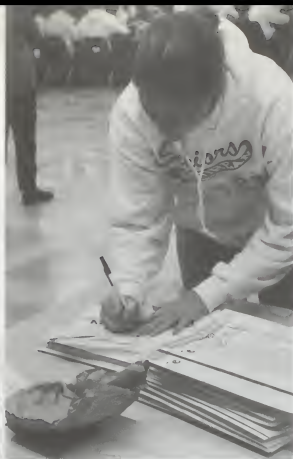

A vessel has been provided:
 one body and soul, mind and spirit.
 Everyone's baggage is different, but the course,
 at least for a time, is the same.
 There are guides to keep everyone focused:
 parents who care and motivate, teachers who instruct and evaluate,
 friends who accompany and encourage.

What will make the journey a success?
Generations of travelers cite determination, knowledge and people skills as the keys to a successful high school career.

Determination will keep a Freshman rewriting to achieve the perfect paragraph.
Determination memorizes theorems, atomic numbers and dialogue for a play.
Determination gets the team to the State finals, puts a student's name on the Andrean Society and is the driving force behind reaching goals and dreams.

And when can anyone know enough?
An Andrean-educated person needs a knowledge of God and God's action in history, a knowledge of how the world works: science, language, government.
Beyond what can be learned from books, a person needs an appreciation of beauty in word, design, music, art.

How to be a friend and have a friend,
what it means to respect someone else and be respected, trust, loyalty, humor, sincerity and genuine virtue-- these are people skills that make the high school journey a great trip.

There are so many ports of call on this journey:
club meetings, dances, drama productions,
games to play and games to watch,
all the happy times after school and on the weekends, times to enjoy people and life.

Stormy weather is part of the journey, too, and the time when friends, family and mentors take on additional importance.
It's not always clear sailing, but the bright days far outnumber the gloomy ones.

Soon enough the trip is over—four years of high school at Andean are completed and a new journey begins.

There will be time to reminisce, to recall what has been learned, to remember people and events and personal growth, but not enough time to dwell on these.

Look forward to experiencing the joy each new journey brings.

charting the course...

Now is the time and this is the place to learn.

The journey which Andrean students are on is demanding, challenging and rigorous, but one which is capable of making a tremendous difference in the lives of the travelers.

There are courses, some required and some elective, but all designed to broaden the vision with which the student views the world. A look at the way God has acted in human history and the relationship this calls forth in us; tools to use in communication, computation, relationships with others; an understanding of those things in the history of the world which have been judged as success or failure; skills to work, express creativity, keep body and soul in good health—all of these tasks fill the 180 prescribed days of the educational process. Led and accompanied by concerned teachers and administrators, Andrean students embrace the journey and learn.

Steering Andrean High School is a time-consuming and all-encompassing job. For twelve, not nine months out of the year, Father Quanz and Mrs. Herr worked to keep faculty, students, and staff moving in the same direction toward a quality education in a Catholic environment. Discipline was the responsibility of Dean Korus and Mr. Torres, while Mrs. Walker attended to financial concerns and Mr. Mueller worried about athletics. Somehow it all came together for a successful voyage and the year 2002-2003 is now history.

Information and On-Course Adjustment Library and Guidance Departments

Information and direction can be found at the north end of Andread's main hall. The Counselors of the Guidance Department did just that-- personally directed students through the bumps and curves of high school and out into a life beyond: college and/or career.

Across the hall, the internet lab of the library provided a window to the world, and students in class and on their own time made good use of its possibilities for research. Just around the corner, the library offered books and magazines to fill in the blanks still remaining.

Destination: Eternity with God

Theology Department

Setting the only course that makes an ultimate difference, the Theology Department provided the information which directed Andreadean students toward our final goal: eternity. A course which was always offered but this year found sufficient student interest was Peer Ministry. Students in this class helped with student liturgies, retreats and prayer services throughout the year. An exercise in putting faith into practice came when the department assumed responsibility for the Christmas lists of 10 poor families through Catholic Charities in Gary. The results were astounding and the generosity remarkable. Another opportunity for witness came in January when 7 students went with Sister Carol Ann, Father Kime and Mrs. Stanish to the Right to Life March in Washington, protesting legalized abortion.

Words to Read, Write and Ponder

English Department

The intricacies of the English language and the wealth of literature are the territory of the English Department. With their sights set much higher than mere success on the Language component of the ISTEP test, teachers guided students to mastery of the language: vocabulary, grammar and composition, while instilling a love and appreciation for the literature of the world. Courses in Speech, Drama and Journalism provided an additional elective for interested students.

Communication is Key

Foreign Language Department

Providing a journey into another culture, the Foreign Languages add a needed dimension to the Andrean curriculum. Leveled courses in Spanish, French, German and Latin strove to impart a proficiency in the spoken language and an understanding of the culture which uses it. Teachers made good use of the internet lab for projects, and all students took part in National Language tests. A trip to Germany offered an opportunity to meet the culture up close.

Understanding the Journeys of the Past

Social Studies Department

The aim of the Social Studies Department is to impart to Andean students the broadest possible knowledge of the history and geography of the world. As future voters in our society, critical thinking is also essential and that is encouraged as well. This year, all Freshmen were required to take Introduction to Social Studies to give them a good start in their high school exploration of the past. U.S. History continued to be a favorite among students since it is a shorter story, closer to home and involves a much more familiar limited geographic area.

Science Department

It's no small task to unravel the mysteries of the universe, yet this is the daily work of the teachers in the Science Department. An honors level Freshman biology was offered this year--something to challenge the best and brightest. Beyond Biology, there were Integrated Chemistry and Physics, Chemistry and Physics in their entirety, course offerings in Earth Space and Environmental Sciences as well as AP courses in Biology, Chemistry and Physics. Students in the advanced placement courses were called upon to use the skills they had mastered in judging science fairs in local Catholic grade schools.

Business and Practical Arts

Skills for living and working in the world beyond school are the territory of classes taught in Business and the Practical Arts. Students learned the ins and outs of computers and desktop publishing. Those interested in careers in business had marketing, finance and business law to broaden their understanding. For the potential architects, drafting and technical drawing were a must. Fine Arts Department Andean students enrolled in Art and Music classes got a daily lift for their spirits and a chance to use both sides of their brains. The opportunity to express themselves creatively through drawing, painting, three-dimensional design, sculpting, singing and/or playing an instrument was personally rewarding and provided others with enjoyment as well. Field trips to local exhibits helped to broaden the students' appreciation of fine art. Music students had an outlet for their talents in the Band, Praise Choir and the annual Spring musical.

Health and Physical Education Department

While much of the Andrean curriculum focuses on the students' minds, the Physical Education Department zeros in on their bodies. Exercise and good nutrition helped keep students in good shape and healthy. Athletic competition developed teamwork and provided good exercise. The students who climbed to the Weight Room every day repeatedly challenged themselves to top their personal best. Knowledge may be power, but it takes a healthy body to use it.

Indecisiveness about which dress to wear, which tuxedo to choose, what restaurant to dine in after the dance, play, or musical: all these worries fall into the realm of Student Life. These are the pages which document the dances, the Queens and Kings, the plays, concerts, fashion show, the unforgettable dates between father and daughter, mother and son, and the final battle between the classes: Armageddon. It captures Andean students during the happiest and most memorable moments in this high school year. From these pages shine the smiling faces of Homecoming, Turnabout and Prom attendees, the talented actors of the drama department, the breathtaking performances of musicians, and the prowess of the athletes competing with each other outside of the official sports teams. In these moments Andean students leave the stress, worries and books behind. The opportunities to share good times with people, have fun, dance, laugh, sing and play are very important, too, and make the journey enjoyable and memorable.

The nine months of school year is situated in a much larger context: the history of the world from August 2002 to June 2003. This year's journey began close to the first anniversary of September 11, 2002--and along with the rest of the United States, Andean commemorated the day with prayer and respectful remembrance. The military effort to find and indict Osama bin Laden in Afghanistan had been unsuccessful, but further terrorist assaults on American soil were halted as security everywhere tightened and terrorist cells were found and dismantled. A new cabinet position for Homeland Security was assumed by ex-Governor of Pennsylvania, Thomas Ridge.

While President George W. Bush pushed the United Nations to pursue a connection between Saddam Hussein of Iraq and terrorist activity worldwide, the USA Space Program suffered a severe loss. On February 1, 2003 in the morning skies of Texas on its reentry into earth's atmosphere, the space shuttle Columbia broke apart, killing all seven astronauts aboard. The debris from the explosion was scattered over more than 100 miles, from Dallas to Fort Worth to the Louisiana line. Early speculation cited problems in the left wing as the cause of the disaster. The shuttle crew was returning from what had been a successful mission, the first for five of the two women and five men aboard, among whom was the first Israeli astronaut in the shuttle's history.

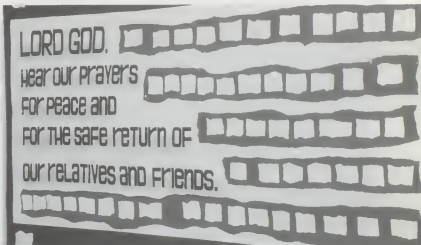

In the wake of this tragedy, President Bush, with the support of England's Prime Minister Tony Blair but without U.N. approval, initiated a "preemptive strike" against Saddam Hussein in Iraq. A perceived refusal on the part of Hussein to destroy his country's weapons of mass destruction was given as the reason for the March 19, 2003 bombing of Iraqi military targets and the eventual takeover of Baghdad. Once again, the person targeted was not found, but by the beginning of May, from the deck of the aircraft carrier Abraham Lincoln, on its way home from the Persian Gulf to San Diego, President Bush declared the combative part of the war over and assured the people of Iraq that their country would be rebuilt and that a government "of the people" would be established.

In another part of the world, China was experiencing a pandemic: SARS: severe acute respiratory syndrome. The World Health Organization said that the disease originated in a southern province of China, spread to Hong Kong and from there was transmitted to the rest of the world by air travelers. Many deaths in China and some in Toronto alerted the world to this emergency.

As if to mirror the intensity of international affairs, the tornado season on the continental United States saw an unusual number of severe weather outbreaks. From May 1 to 11, 44 persons were killed in 296 tornadoes in Midwestern and mid-Atlantic states.

Locally there was some good news: government imposed tariffs on steel imports brought some relief to the struggling steel industry; the bankrupt Bethlehem Steel was bought by International Steel Group; and on May 26, Gary's own minor league baseball team, the Railcats, played their first home game in their new stadium in downtown Gary to a standing-room-only crowd.

Spirit Week

As early as September, school spirit was already evident in Andean students. The Student Council promoted the flow of creativity during Spirit Week, the five school days which preceed the Homecoming game and dance. Activities included pajama day, college shirt day, famous person day, the traditional Powderpuff football games, and a talent show skit at the Homecoming pep rally. By the time of the Homecoming game, everyone was excited!

Homecoming Court 2002

Elected by their peers, the 2002 Homecoming nominees for Queen were Liz Adlard, Diana Arand, Pauley Gasparis, Liz Kabella and Kelly Konzen. The nominees for Homecoming King were Jerry Brown, Pat Bytnar, Brett Goins, Josh Haun and Jim Jaworski. On September 20, at the Friday afternoon Homecoming pep assembly, the candidates were presented and the tension built from then on until the halftime of the Homecoming football game against Gary Horace Mann later that evening. The announcement of the King came first and Brett Goins, clad in his football uniform, was crowned. Once they had been escorted in, the Queen candidates listened for the announcement of the Queen: Kelly Konzen.

The Shape of Things

Director Mr. Christopher Gloff chose The Shape of Things by Neil Labute as the fall drama in order to inspire the audience to contemplate their daily focus and behaviors. The play describes three teens' journey through a dark, scary, and barren land filled with the cleverly wicked manipulation of Evelyn (Andrea Mongoven).

Cast of Characters:

Adam.....Drew Bacevich
Evelyn.....Andrea Mongoven
Phillip.....Steve Crockett
Jenny.....Brittany Langmeyer

TOP RIGHT: As the production nears opening night, Valerie Sultanovitz asks Mr. Gloff a question about the costumes she handles for the cast members.

Alice in Wonderland

The January 29, 30 and 31 production of Alice in Wonderland directed by Mr. Gloff had very different twists and turns from the Disney version. The cast played multiple characters and left the audience in awe, amazement and some confusion.

Cast of Characters:

Diana Arand
Tim Billick
Adam Dzyacky
Steven Egan
Kristin Larsen
Andrea Mongoven

Daddy Date Night

The annual Daddy Date Night was held at the beautiful Avalon Manor on November 3, 2002. After a delicious dinner, the couples who attended had a wonderful time dancing the night away. The fathers of Senior girls who had participated in Daddy

Date for all four years of their daughters' high school career were given awards. Memories for many years to come were made by the fathers and their little girls on this Sunday evening.

Mommy Date Night

The 2003 Mommy Date Night was held on Sunday, February 16, at the Hobart Elks Club. The night was enjoyed by all who attended. Sons had the opportunity to show their mothers they really do have manners, and the Moms could not have been more proud of their sons. For the Seniors who attended, it was their last but maybe the best Mommy Date Night of all.

TOP LEFT: Jonathan Moore and his mother take time out from dancing to smile for the camera.

TOP RIGHT: It's not too late for Joe Gryzbek's mother to teach her son a few moves on the dance floor.

Turnabout 2003

Turnabout 2003 was a "Night at the Orient." The formal dance was held on the night of the Chinese New Year, January 30th, at St. George Hall in Schererville. Student Council members made sure that the predominantly black and red decorations were beautiful and put everyone into the mood of the theme. The couples who attended had a great time bringing in the "New Year" together.

TOP LEFT: Diana Arand and Garrett Wiekak make sure to smile for the camera as they get their picture taken by friends.

Passport to Italy

Parents' Club Style Show

The Andrean Style Show, an afternoon of glamour and beauty, was held at the Radisson Star Plaza in Merrillville on Sunday, April 6, 2003. Titled "Passport to Italy," the event is sponsored as a fund-raiser by the Andrean Parents' Club. Many Andrean students were involved in the festivities and served as ushers and attendants as well as models. After a delicious Italian luncheon, Alexis of Highland gave those in attendance a look at what's new in fashion. Andrean Seniors then modeled Prom-wear from Courthouse Bridal Boutique. The program ended with the awarding of prizes contributed by different organizations, the Silent Auction-Basket Boutique and the money raffle. All the winners went home happy as did all those who attended the luncheon.

RIGHT: Coming slowly to belief in Jesus as more than a human being, Jonathan Moore professes that Jesus is the "Light of the World."

Godspell

Spring Musical

If there is a charm, then this third production of Godspell under the direction of Mr. Christopher Gloff was predestined to be enjoyed by six audiences on the weekends of May 1-3 and 15-17. A lively and spirited telling of the Gospel of St. Matthew with music and lyrics by Stephen Schwartz, the show presented in the St. Basil Theatre tested the musical and dancing talents of the cast. The orchestra, partially hidden by the netted background of the stage, accompanied the songs and dances closely. An additional two performances were added during the school days between the weekends of the show to give area grade school students an opportunity to enjoy the good news.

THE CAST

Jesus.....	Tim Billick	John the Baptist/Judas.....	Dan Billick
Drew Bacevich	Erin Hallett	Ashley Ness	Valerie Saltanovitz

The End is Near... Armageddon 2003

Or so said the bright red t-shirts that Student Council members and the Faculty wore on Friday, May 23, when Armageddon, the annual clash of the classes, began in the gym. After the placement of the torch, the class officers competed in a few contests followed by the more serious events both inside and outside of the building. An early morning rain had dampened fields but not spirits and the competitions proceeded smoothly. After the final dodgeball game, the results were announced: Seniors 43, Juniors 36, Sophomores 31, and Freshmen 29. The Seniors had won the bragging rights as well as red shirts for all participants to wear the Tuesday after Memorial Day.

Moonlight Enchantment

Prom 2003

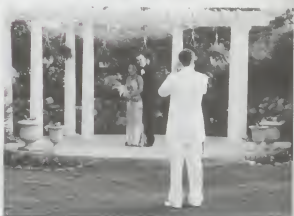

The theme for this year's Prom was "Moonlight Enchantment." The dance was held on Friday, May 9 in Valparaiso at the Aberdeen Manor. A perfect spring evening, dancing, fancy snacks to eat, lots of picture-taking and time to enjoy the results of months of preparation made it an enchanting evening. Well into the festivities, the Prom king and queen were announced: Rob Caldwell and Diana Arand. The night was filled with music and fun and enjoyed by all who attended.

charting the course...

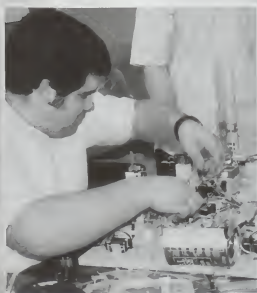

No one here at Andean High School has to go it alone.

Beyond the classroom, students gravitate toward groupings by interest and ability. These organizations provide an opportunity for students to enjoy the familiar, explore the unfamiliar and cultivate friendships that will stand the test of time. On this academic adventure, there are side trips available to those whose interests lie in: student government, service, spelling, science, academic interscholastic competition, work with the mentally challenged, African American History, modern and ancient language, chess, social change, dancing and publishing. There is so much to choose from, there aren't enough after-school hours in the day.

Organized for Fun and Outreach

Student Council

This year's Student Council hosted many events for Andean students. Members planned and decorated for the Homecoming and Winter Formal dances. Both Spirit Week and Winterfest got the classes energized before each of these dances. Members also conducted a school-wide toy drive in homerooms before Christmas, collecting shoeboxes full of items sent to needy children in Honduras. In the second semester, the annual blood drive aided the Red Cross, and a Career Day brought in speakers to help Andean students make choices about their futures. Student Council also orchestrated Armageddon and staged pep assemblies.

Student Council Officers: Anne Sikora, President; Maggie McGuan, Vice-President; Jonathan Moore, Treasurer; Drew Baron, Secretary.
Ms. Rachele Rodarte and Mr. James Klora, Moderators.

Committed to Selfless Service

National Honor Society

The National Honor Society is for exceptional junior and senior students who maintain a 3.0 grade point average but also possess strong leadership skills and are involved in their school and community. The club's activities consisted of tutoring fellow students, donating time and money to charity, working at the Ronald McDonald House, and ringing bells for the Salvation Army at Christmas.

Much More Than "i" Before "e"

Spellbowl Team

The Spellbowl Team worked very diligently to ensure a successful season. At practices, team members were required to learn words from a list of over 4000 words. They took quizzes and tests to see who would be one of the nine team members to spell at the next match. Sometimes they would even compete against Mr. Szot! The Spellbowl team had a very successful season, winning first place honors at the Duneland Conference and Regional matches. After advancing to state, the team made a commendable finish in third place in the final round.

Spellbowl: Ms. Sue Dwars, Moderator.

TOP: Before heading off to a match, Christina Shockley, Stephanie Limjoco, and Adam Molon go over the list of words again under the watchful eye of Ms. Dwars.

FAR RIGHT: Listening intently, Melissa Wiak, Adam Molon and Brandon Kirstein get instructions on how to remember the spelling of certain words.

Teamed Up to Push the Limits

Science Olympiad

This year the Science Olympiad Team concentrated on increasing their knowledge in order to perform well in competitions. Science Olympiad consists of two types of events: testing events and construction events. Those team members who participated in the testing events used their practice time to study. Those in construction events began to assemble apparatus for their specific challenges. The team placed third at Regionals and qualified for the state competition at Indiana University, Bloomington.

Science Olympiad: Steve Crockett, Brian Kozak and Dennis Ruhland, Captains.
Mr. Jack Gilbey and Mr. Dennis Ruhland, Moderators.

TOP: Prior to their trip to Indianapolis, the Andean contingent poses for a group shot with Mr. Gilbey.

Up Against the Best and Brightest Superbowl

Concentrating on and thoroughly studying the Middle Ages, teams proficient in Science, Math, English, Fine Arts, Social Studies and one Interdisciplinary team competed in Superbowl. Three members from each team answered multiple choice questions in numerous competitions with similar teams from other schools. When all of the dust settled, Andean teams came away with a 5th, 6th and 7th place in Social Studies, Math and Science respectively. It was an accomplishment for which they could be proud.

Mr. Ray DeFabio, Mrs. Helen Giorgio, Mr. Gene Giorgio, Mrs. Barbara Koteles, Mr. John Szot, Mrs. Anne Weiss; Moderators.

Who Says You Can't Know It All?

Decathlon

The Decathlon team ended this year's season with the best finish they have had in 10 years. All of the 9 team members and one alternate, under the supervision of their coaches, worked diligently at practice to further their knowledge of "Man and his Environment" in Language and Literature, Economics, Math, Art, History, and Music, and compete in Essay, Interview, Speech and Superquiz, which was on Oceanography this year. Their mastery of all of these was evidenced by their 2nd place finish in the state competition.

Think Fast and Buzz In Faster Quiz Bowl

The Quiz Bowl team worked diligently this year to increase their knowledge of general information. At practices, members simulated matches, buzzers and all, to help prepare for upcoming competitions. The Quiz Bowl team went up against much stiff opposition away and at home in the Andean library. Undeclared in the regular season, the varsity team made it to the semifinals round at the state competition in Noblesville and finished in 8th place. While there was no trip to a national competition this year, the team was proud to continue the tradition of academic formidability.

Captain: Steve Crockett
Mr. John Szot, Sr. Carol Ann, S.S.C.M.; Moderators.

Party! Party! Party!

Youth Association for Retarded Children

This group of party-lovers provided mentally challenged youth and young adults with three seasonal celebrations. For Halloween, Christmas and Easter, the members of YARC held a party in the cafeteria at which the young guests who attended received prizes and treats. YARC members gave freely of their time and resources to help those who happily benefited from their assistance. The letters of the club can fittingly represent: Young Adults Really Care. There Is Power in Knowing the Past

African American History Club

This year the African American History Club set out to help others and work to improve race relations at Andean. To fulfill the first goal, members prepared baskets for the elderly which they delivered in person to the residents of a local nursing home. Club members worked for weeks to organize and plan for an assembly for the entire Andean community presented on February 24, during African American History month. Addressing the second goal of the club, guest speaker Professor Gary Martin spoke of improving race relations.

Fiesta! Fiesta!

Spanish Club

The Spanish Club experienced an impressive growth in participating membership this year. The club's largest and most popular event was the Pot Luck Dinner. The dinner was held on October 9 and many students and parents came to taste the ethnic food and watch the dancers. Other celebrations included the feast of Our Lady of Guadalupe, a Christmas celebration, Mexican Independence Day and Cinco de Mayo. Occasionally the club held parties after school in place of a meeting.

German Club

Over the years, the German Club has helped many people who are less fortunate, and this year was no exception. Around Thanksgiving time, the club held the annual school-wide food drive so they could make a sizeable contribution to the St. Monica-Luke food pantry. The day they delivered the food, members worked at the soup kitchen, serving lunch to the poor. Around the time of Mardi Gras, German Club members celebrated the German equivalent of this celebration, Karneval.

"Everything Is Better in Latin"

Latin Club

The first Latin Club activity of the year was the annual Roman Auction. Members of the club, mostly underclassmen, were auctioned off during all lunch periods. The highest bidder had the personal services of the student for a week. Proceeds went into the club treasury as did the income from a bake sale later in the year. Club members also celebrated Saturnalia, the Roman feast honoring the god Saturn who, according to myth, brought civilization to Rome.

Putting Our Best Foot Forward Ambassadors

The Andean Ambassadors worked in conjunction with the Development Office to help entice middle school students to attend Andean. Ambassadors traveled to many area Catholic grade schools to give speeches about the many benefits of attending such a prestigious high school. They also served as tour guides at the annual Open House in November, where young students were shown what Andean looks like. The Ambassadors were an important public relations tool for the Development office, and they were responsible for many students' decisions to attend Andean. Mr. David Pishkur, Moderator.

It's Your Move... Chess Club

Everyone always knew where to find members of the Andean Chess Club: they could be found before and after school practicing their moves on the bookstore countertop. The players discussed strategies, but mostly they just played. They welcomed chess players with any level of experience, and were always willing to give instructions for improving skills.

An Ounce of Prevention SADD

The Students Against Destructive Decisions (SADD) worked diligently this year to help Andean students realize the consequences of their decisions. During Red Ribbon week, the organization handed out candy bags and held a balloon release to help students remember the importance of staying drug-free. SADD was also very active during prom week. Not only did they decorate the hallways with thought-provoking posters, but members walked around the school pretending to be dead, the victims of drunk drivers. These students dressed in black and were not allowed to talk to any "living" students. The dead students served as a reminder to all that drinking and driving has serious consequences.

Looking Ahead Career Day

Andrean revived an old tradition this year with Career Day. Sponsored by the Student Council and in consultation with Mr. Pishkur and the Alumni Association, men and women from many different occupations were invited to give presentations to the students. Based on their choices, students were assigned to three half hour presentations in the afternoon of Friday, April 4. Most of the speakers were alumni from Andrean, adding a personal dimension to their presence here and the insights they could offer to today's students.

DECUSSATA -- Andrean's Yearbook

Writing a book is like taking a long journey. It is not, however, the journey of one person. Many people were a part of this enterprise--those who took the pictures; those who designed the layouts, selected the photos, wrote the cutlines and the copy, entered it all in the computer for publication; those who contributed photos, information, identifications, technical support or contributions for ads. The year-long trek began early in August and ended late the following June. The finished product is in your hands. Happy remembering!

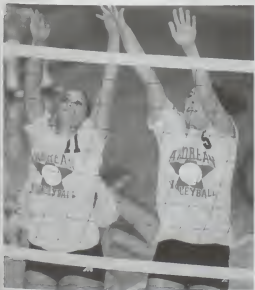

charting the course...

Even on the most dreary days, the members of the Andrean Athletic teams could be seen practicing for upcoming games. Conditioning and training for fall sports began in the summertime when some athletes had to endure practice under the scorching sun. Saturdays, Thanksgiving, Christmas and spring break vacations provided the student athletes additional time to practice; practices and sports events called for major sacrifices on the part of some. Juggling the demands of school work, practice, and competitions, the student athlete is under pressure to perform well. The valiant attempt to achieve a goal, successful or not, makes all the sweat and tears worth it. Teams who advance closer to state recognition unite the school in excitement and spirit. Participation in sports develops life-skills: sportsmanship, organization, the camaraderie of members on a team, time management, integrity in winning and losing. All of these the Andrean student will need when attempting to chart the course of life.

With nine returning varsity members, the Girls' Soccer team did not have a lot of rebuilding to do, but needed time to hone the skills they already possessed, such as endurance and ball control. Under the guidance of new head coach, Mr. Christopher Mikrut, the soccer team was able to come together and win the Conference champion title.

TEAM ADVANCES TO SEMI-FINAL SECTIONALS

Boys' Soccer

This was a year of rebuilding for the Boys' Soccer team since only three varsity members returned from last year. Practicing every day on the field shared with the football team, the soccer players not only learned the fundamentals of passing, ball control and awareness, but also unity and team pride. Through the leadership of captain Carlos Mena and team coach, Mr. Pete Reist, the team advanced to the semifinal sectional game, where they experienced a heart-breaking loss to Hobart in overtime. The most memorable game of the season saw the mighty but unranked 59ers beat the number one seated Mustangs at Munster during their team's Senior Night.

DEJA VU -- 3-PEAT

Football

Under the direction of new Head Coach Mr. Wally McCormack, this year's football team overcame the loss of last year's graduates, garnered the returning players, attracted new players and assembled a strong team which outscored all but one competitor. The mighty 59ers remained undefeated until a problem with the referee caused the 59ers to forfeit a game to Horace Mann. One of the most defining moments was when fans, some with their shirts off in 20 degree weather, filled the stands during the Twin Lakes regional game. The season breezed by with all highs, and there was a build up to the state championship game against Indianapolis Bishop Chatard. The Trojans lined their side of the stadium with blue and white and the 59ers filled theirs with red and gold. Unfortunately, the mighty 59ers went down in defeat as their final opponent proved unbeatable. Besides dealing with the pressures of living up to the expectations of their peers, parents and teachers, the players also had to deal with pressure from the media which was present at every game. Learning a valuable lesson on dealing with stress, "team members had to keep their heads up and take things week by week." --Brett Goins

RUNNING THROUGH IN Girls' and Boys' Cross Country

Running 10 miles through hilly Indiana Dunes State Park was all in a day's work for this year's Cross Country teams. Since almost all the team members were veterans, there was less need to focus on basic skills like endurance, but instead, the challenge was to hone the skills and talents already possessed by the team members. Under the leadership of Coach Mr. Mark Horvath, the girls' team ran their way into history by bringing home the first Cross Country sectional title in Andrean's history. In addition to that, one member from the boys' team, Joe Novoa, represented Andrean at the semi-State meet, held in Indianapolis. TEAM WINS REGIONALS

Boys' Tennis

This year's Boys' Tennis team had one goal in mind: to make it to the post-season in October. After losing four varsity starters, many had little respect for the recuperating Niners, but through pride, hustle, determination and raw talent, the Niners were able to finish the season very respectfully. The most memorable moment occurred when the Niners were able to secure their reputation by watching the Merrillville Pirates leave the court defeated after the Sectional game. "Agility, velocity, confidence and precision--the combination of these skills are needed to become a prime tennis player."

UNDERDOGS ADVANCE TO REGIONALS

Girls' Golf

At the beginning of the season, the girls' golf team suffered a great loss when all area top 10 golfer Carly Califfello was told by her doctors that she would never golf again. The Niners lost a key player at the same time they were having problems around the green with putting and chipping. With that in mind, the Niners started the season with a bleak outlook, but were able to recover, improve and, with Carly playing despite her physical problems, make it all the way to Regionals. Girls' Volleyball

With only two returning seniors, the Girls' Volleyball team had to do some serious work in the pre-season to become contenders. They began in the summer, meeting every day to build stamina, practice their serving and ball handling, sweating in the very warm temperatures. Through the leadership of Co-Captains Nikki Lazarro and Amber Hynek and the direction of Head Coach Ms. Amber Alm, the team advanced to sectionals, and proudly earned the title of Sectional Champs. "In order to achieve greatness on and off the court, one must be able to perform under pressure and think critically of every step."--Nikki Lazarro

SEASON ENDS WITH 10 POINT LOSS TO CALUMET Girls' Basketball

The girls' basketball team faced a great challenge at the beginning of this year's season. With only three returning varsity members, the team had to prove to the skeptics and cynics that they were still a force with which to be reckoned. Although the team finished its season with a record of 15 wins and 9 losses, it was able to advance to the Second round of Sectionals, where they suffered a devastating 10 point loss to Calumet. The most memorable moment of the season occurred when the mighty Lady 59ers defeated their archrival: the Crown Point Bulldogs, in a nail-biting overtime game. The game of basketball teaches a valuable lesson for life: "When you play as hard as you can, even if you don't win, you get better with each experience." --Kelly Swisher

2ND ROUND SECTIONAL CONTENDERS

Boys' Basketball

The game of basketball seems so simple. One man carries the ball down the court; he then either shoots it toward the basket or passes it to his teammate to shoot. The goal is simple, but the difficulty is multiplied by ten when two teams play together. A good player should possess the skills of speed, agility, and the ability to jump. Then, in order to be successful, this player must be able to work with others as a team. With only five returning varsity members, the 59ers were said to be underdogs at the beginning of the season. Expectations were not very high, but with constant practice and hard work, the determined 59ers were able to prove the cynics wrong and with that, made it to the second round of sectionals.

"The advice I have for next year's team is to stick together. In the previous years, the team lacked chemistry, causing the loss of many games. This year, the problem was rectified and our season improved."
--Danny Moffet

HARD WORK EQUALS SUCCESS

Boys' Wrestling

Although it is not a wildly celebrated sport, Wrestling is one of the most challenging competitive sports because the participants must exhibit a high level of discipline besides the skills necessary to compete one-on-one. With seven returning varsity members, this year's team had only one goal in sight: to advance more individual wrestlers to the sectional and regional level. Although the team did not finish with a perfect record, members had no regrets. "We worked as hard as we could and gave everything we had on the mat, and because of that, our team was a success." --Victor Pedroza.

SEASON ENDS WITH DEVASTATING LOSS 1-0

Girls' Softball

The goal of the softball team was to make it down to state with the ten returning varsity players in the lineup. The girls had a perfect record all season until they faced and were defeated by McCutcheon in the latter part of the regular season. To play softball, one must be equipped with all the qualities the Lady 59ers possess. A person must be smart, strong, quick, and composed at all times. With team unity at its all-time highest level, the teams' most defining moment was the realization that they could only beat themselves. Unfortunately, the team was unable to make it to state. They lost during the sectional championship to Hanover Central. Although the season did not pan out as they had planned, the girls still learned some valuable lessons. Pitcher Katie Sheaks compares softball to life by saying, "There is a target on your back every time you play because of who you are. Play your game and nothing less—make your own results; leave your own legacy."

ON A ROLL TOWARD A STATE CHAMPIONSHIP Boys' Baseball

This years' baseball team had one goal in mind: to win the state title in their division. In order to accomplish that goal, the team worked hard at practice, determined to steadily improve the skills they already possessed. The most defining moments of the season occurred when Sean Quinn, the pinch hitter for Roco Marcinak, hit the winning run against Highland and when pitcher John Melko picked off six guys in one game. An agonizing loss at Victory Field in the State Finals game against Norwell put the team's dream of a state championship on hold for another year. "Talent, a good work ethic, the ability to listen and an attitude to do anything to win: all these are the skills a good baseball player should possess."--Garret Wiejak.

TEAM ADVANCES TO REGIONALS

Girls' Track and Field

Good timing, lungs, and focus: all the skills needed in order to become a serious track competitor. This year's girls team saw a drop in the number of runners, but were still able to qualify the four by four relay team to Regionals. The most defining moment of this year's season occurred when the girls' relay team dropped 5 seconds and ran the four by four in 4:13 at the Rensselaer meet. Since track is a team sport, it is necessary for the participants to realize that teamwork is the key to attaining anything. As in life, perseverance through aggravating circumstances is what separates the winners from those who can't take the pressure. Jesse Moutaw draws a parallel between track and life by saying, "A good mental attitude and a strong will to learn and compete are the focus points of any good track competitor, whether a runner, high jumper, long jumper, discus or shot put thrower."

ONE ADVANCES TO STATE

Boys' Track and Field

Under the direction of new head Coach, Mr. Rick Torres, the boys' track team had a lot of work to do. The goal of the team was to send some relay teams and individuals down to State. To accomplish this goal, all team members gave 100%, not only at the track meets but also at practices. Dedication, patience, the ability to listen and mental toughness were the skills that all the members of the team had to develop and exhibit. By the time the State meet arrived, Nolan Petties was the individual who had qualified to take part in the contests in Indianapolis. He returned a 5th place medalist in the long jump with a jump of 22'1.25." The most defining moment of the season occurred off the track when the team was sharing stories at a retreat. "Listen to your coach and take care of yourself at all times. Think not only of yourself, but also of your teammates."--Derrell Tinner

SECTIONAL CHAMPIONS

Girls' Tennis

With only three returning varsity players, this year's tennis team had a lot of work to do in order to maintain their title as sectional champions. The game of tennis contains both physical and mental aspects. An aura of confidence is necessary in order to secure wins. When it seems as though all is lost, a good tennis player must be mentally tough and capable of bouncing back from defeat. The most defining moment of this year's season was beating Merrillville for the second year in a row. The win was especially memorable because it was a complete team effort. "In the game of tennis, everyday is a chance to start out fresh. When players get into a slump, they must pull themselves together and try their best in all subsequent matches." --Amy Molnar

DISAPPOINTING 5TH PLACE FINISH AT REGIONALS

Boys' Golf

With the local newspaper crews swarming around the golf players and covering their every triumph, win, defeat and mistake, this year's team had many grand expectations to fulfill. Striving to master the qualities of desire, determination and self discipline, the boys kept swinging despite the downs of a very up season. Finishing first at Sectionals, they had as much difficulty at Regionals as Tiger Woods had at the US Open this year and finished as well as he did at 5th place. Golf is like the course of life in that, "Efficiency is paramount: the goal of every golfer is to get the ball in the hole with the fewest possible strokes."—Cameron Kashani

Boys' Bowling

Even without formal recognition as a sport at Andean, the Bowling Team has done very well in its four years of existence. This year team members did not advance as far as they would have hoped to, but they were still able to finish impressively. Andean's number one bowler, Matt Springer, won second in the state. The most defining moment of the season occurred when the bowlers realized that although they did not win state, they still finished the year with a perfect conference record. The goal for this year's team had been to win state again so that they would be formally recognized as a sport by the school and thus merit a letter for their efforts. Jason Rakoczy compares the journey of life to the sport of bowling by saying, "Bowling is meant to be enjoyed; if one can not have fun, then one should not be bowling."

ROLLING THEIR WAY TO FUN

Girls' Bowling

With only three returning varsity girl bowlers, this year's team had their work cut out for them. Although the team did not quite make it as far as they expected, they accomplished their goal of playing their best and having fun. To the untrained eye, bowling may look like a simple recreational sport, but a lot goes into training and being a good bowler. In order to be successful at the sport, one must not only have enough strength to carry the ball, but must know where to stand and be able to adjust to the lanes. The most memorable moment for the girls' bowling team occurred when they lost to the Girls' State Champions by only 16 pins during a tournament. Rachele Salvo offers advice on dealing with disappointing losses during tournaments and in other areas of life: "The best thing to do when you wipe out on the lane is to laugh."

BOOSTERS OF TEAM MORALE

Cheerleaders

Even though most people would not classify cheerleading as a sport, it is as demanding and physical as any sport. Cheerleaders must be patient, eager to learn and resourceful, but they must also learn quickly and move with sharp and tight motions. Because she's a public performer, a cheerleader must always keep a smile on her face despite her inward feelings. Success as a cheerleader demands the ability to work with others and learn how to put one's personal needs aside for the interests of the squad. The saying "You are only as strong as your weakest link" applies to cheerleading because a squad cannot be its best with a member who is not willing to work hard. "I was more concerned with squad bonding rather than actual performance. If things aren't going well behind the scenes, then it will show."

KEEPING MIND AND BODY TOGETHER Trainers

Athletics can be dangerous and that's where the work of the trainers comes in. Hydration, and means to prevent injuries to arms, legs, knees and other stressed parts all happen before the events take place. During the events there's more hydration and attention to injuries as they occur. When the games are over and between events, the work of healing takes time and patience. Under the direction of Head Trainer Miss Julie Blair, student trainers attend to the details of the work and get a taste of sports medicine in action.

charting the course...

Remember the faces, the hairstyles, the braces, smiles, the way it was from August 2002 to June 2003: here is something to gasp at in 10 years, to mark the amount of change which has or has not taken place.

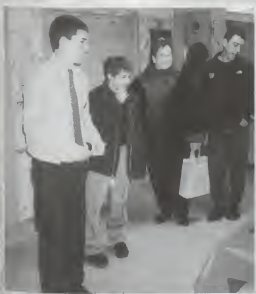

The high school experience begins with Freshman year. Freshmen may not look small, but initially feel dwarfed, out-classed, less experienced. With the passage of time come friendships, acquaintances, familiarity, the challenges and rewards of being part of a class or a team.

Sophomores fit in better, even if they don't feel like they fit in their skin. Friendships deepen, driving becomes a possibility, the educational experiences get tougher. It's a comfortable place to be—not a beginner, but not too pressed to look beyond the task at hand.

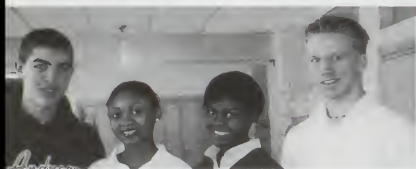

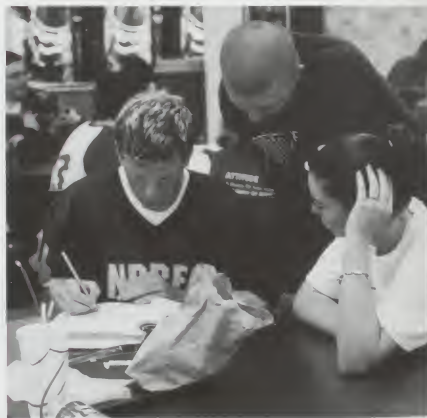

Beyond the halfway point, Juniors feel a greater pressure toward the goal while letters become important: PSAT, SAT, NHS, GPA, MVP. A transition to thinking outside-the-box readies them for the decisions to be made soon in the only year which remains in this high school journey.

Senior year is the most anticipated year in one's high school career. It is a year of firsts and lasts. It is the year in which college plans are finalized and one must make the difficult decision of leaving many familiar aspects of life such as family, friends and teachers. It is the year of the last football game, the last pep rally, the last walk down a hallway trimmed in red and gold. It is the last year to laugh at Andy the Niner at a basketball game, the last prom, the final showdown at Armageddon and the last time to join the whole school in the singing of the Alma Mater. The completion of Senior year is comparable to the relief that comes over a person after the Geometry final, yet with it comes the realization that an era has come to an end. Graduation is by no means the end of the journey. It is only the beginning. Graduates are like the red balloons that SADD releases every year: they have been prepared, the strings have been tied; like the balloons have been filled with air, their heads have been filled with knowledge. At graduation they are all released. Now is the time to prove that four years of formation have been enough to set the graduates free.

Josh Haun Antoinette Sanchez

The Senior Banquet was held on Thursday, May 22 from 5 to 9 p.m. at Turkey Creek Country Club in Merrillville. Dinner, dancing and the awarding of Class Royalties made the event memorable for all who attended.

BELOW: Ever the actress, Elyse Pancheri entertains Drew Bacevich.

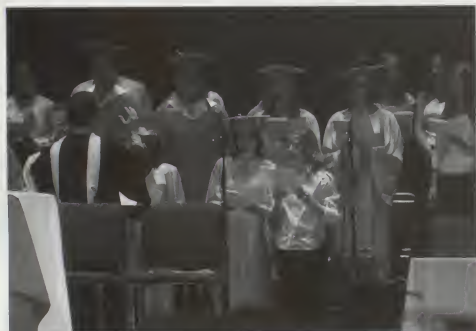

ABOVE: Transported to Hawaii by the theme and table decorations are Mark Bohling, Aaron Babb, Jason Jimenez, Samantha Regnier, Cameron Kashani, Kevin Monaldi, Brian Ray and Joe Hebda.

Missioned for Peace

Baccalaureate Mass

Unseasonably cool weather and a little drizzle were not enough to ruin the joyous mood of the Class of 2003 as they processed into the Radisson Star Theater on Wednesday, June 11th at 7:00 p.m. Commencement Exercises began with the celebration of the Mass. World events and the feast of St. Barnabas gave Bishop Dale Melczek his message for the graduates: use your many gifts to spread the peace Jesus gave to his disciples on the night of his resurrection. Citing President George Bush's May 1st message to the country from the deck of the USS Abraham Lincoln, the Bishop saw a parallel with this graduation in that much work has already been done by the graduates, but much work lies ahead. All those in attendance united to pray for strength for the journey which the Class of 2003 has begun.

LEFT: Leading the people in prayer for the graduates, Bishop Melczek is flanked by Father Kime, Father Paul Quanz and Father Pat Kalich. BELOW: In a calm sea of red and gold, Katie Sheaks, Anne Sikora, Ross Smith and Joe Smock listen attentively to the Bishop's homily.

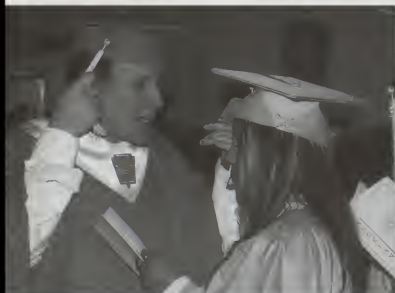

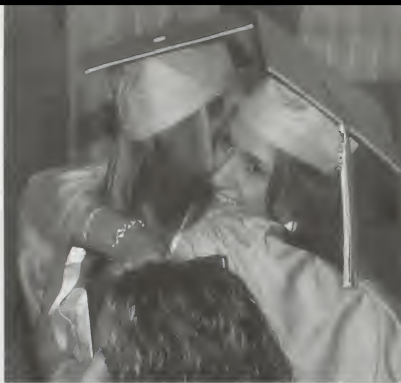

CENTER: In his homily, Bishop Melczek invites the 2003 graduates to further the mission of Jesus to bring truth, justice, love and peace to all. ABOVE: Brian and Jeffrey Dolder bring the wine and water to the altar at the Preparation of the Gifts.

LEFT: Caps and tassels are no impediment for Kathryn Dubec to give a warm hug to a classmate at the Sign of Peace.

Graduation

Immediately following the Baccalaureate Mass, graduation ceremonies began with the Salutatory Address by Kelly Schwuchow. Then Father Quanz presented the Class of 2003 to Bishop Dale Melczek who congratulated each graduate midway in their individual walk across the stage. All of the graduates rose when Mr. Richardson received a diploma for his son, the missing member of the Class of 2003, Ruben Richardson III who had been killed in a tragic accident in 2001. Following Mr. Pishkur's welcome into the Andean Alumni Association, the graduates heard parting words from Aaron Molenda, the class Valedictorian. After a symbols ceremony the class sang the Alma Mater as a group for the last time. The graduates then processed out to receive the congratulations of family members and friends who had witnessed the momentous event.

TOP: There are many hugs and warm congratulations for and from Afton Hamilton after the ceremony.

RIGHT: One last singing of the Alma Mater and Stephanie Tominov, Lauren Tracy, Chris Tubbs, Victor Tyler, George Umbarger and Rachel Veronesi will be filing out of the theater as Andean alumni.

Journey Ended, Journeys Begun

BELOW: On stage as part of the choir, Michelle Arias-Miller and Teresa Moreno congratulate each other.

ABOVE: In the symbols ceremony, prom favors are presented by Jonathan Moore to represent good times, and the Decussata is held by its editor, Jacinta Anigbo. LEFT: The proud grandfather, Mr. Cunningham, is surrounded by two Andean graduates, Joshua '01 and Jacob Fowler '03.

BELOW: It's one last trip to the bookstore for Ernest Adams to receive his graduation announcements.

ABOVE: At the end of graduation practice Sarah Hussey and Diane Hisick pick up their class photo.
RIGHT and ABOVE: With the return of cap and gown (Ben Blair) comes something to fill the diploma covers of Sarah Lipniskis and Laura Robles.

the 1990s, the number of people in the UK who are aged 65 and over has increased from 10.5 million to 13.5 million, and the number of people aged 75 and over has increased from 4.5 million to 6.5 million (Office of National Statistics 2000).

There is a growing awareness of the need to address the needs of older people in the community. The Department of Health (1999) has published a strategy for older people, which sets out a vision for the future of older people's health and care. The strategy is based on the following principles: older people should be able to live independently and actively in the community; older people should be able to access the services they need; and older people should be able to participate in decisions about their care and services.

The strategy also sets out a number of key objectives for the future of older people's health and care. These include: to improve the health and quality of life of older people; to ensure that older people have access to the services they need; to ensure that older people are able to participate in decisions about their care and services; and to ensure that older people are able to live independently and actively in the community.
